

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

An e-mail access gateway system is provided. The email access gateway system includes an authorization system that receives an e-mail message and determines whether a reply to the e-mail message is authorized. A reply system coupled to the authorization system receives the e-mail message and generates a response message if the e-mail message is authorized.